MANY LIVELY SCENES

Saratoga Republican Convention Not Lacking in Enthusiasm.

TOWN AND MEETING HALL PACKED

First Day's Session Continued Late Into the Night—Defeat of Warner Miller—Platform Favors the Gold Standard and Upholds the Raines Law.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 26.—After two momentous sessions the republican convention adjourned late last night until 11 o'clock to-day without naming a ticket. The day was a most eventful one. No larger or more enthusiastic crowd of republicans has attended a state convention in recent years, if ever in the history of the Empire state. Representative men from all parts of the state are here, and Saratoga, the best equipped and most beautiful convention town in the state, had her hands full caring for the people. Over 5,000 crowded the convention hall until there was room for no more, and between the sessions Broadway presented a spectacle long to be remembered by all who were part of the assemblage. The convention assembled at noon with representative Frank S. Black of Troy as temporary chairman. His speech was classed by republicans here as one of the best contributions to national or state campaign literature that has been heard in this eventful year. During recess the committee on credentials listened to fifteen different contests.

Warner Miller Defeated.

When the convention reassembled at 5 o'clock Warner Miller, who had been turned down by the committee, carried his fight before the convention. He made one of the best speeches of his life, but the opposition rolled over him, and his claim was thrown out. He retired from the hall, declaring his loyalty to the party in spite of the treatment he had received. Gen. Stewart L. Woodford of Brooklyn was made permanent chairman. He proved entirely too weak as a presiding officer for the noisy crowd of boomers who occupied the galleries. The convention ran itself in up-to-date style and the chairman was permitted to have order only when the enthusiastic shouters for the different candidates were weary. All the interruptions were made in good humor, and nothing except the retirement of Mr. Miller marred the harmony of the proceedings. Mr. Platt from his place in the Tioga delegation smiled good-naturedly as the convention ran itself. Early in the day he had announced his final decision not to accept the nomination for governor, and to allow the candidates to fight it out in open convention. This they attempted to do, but no result was reached. The platform, rather a long re-statement of republican principles and declarations for sound money and protection, was adopted without a murmur of opposition.

Nominating Speeches.

Nominating speeches were made presenting the names of George W. Aldridge of Monroe, Hamilton Fish of Putnam, James Wadsworth of Geneseo, Frank S. Black of Troy, Gen. John Palmer of Albany, Archie E. Baxter of Elmira, Lieut.-Gov Charles Saxton of Clyde, James Roberts of Buffalo, E. B. Brackett of Saratoga and Timothy E. Ellsworth of Lockport. The ballots were taken without result. Fourteen men were voted for. Aldridge led with 224 votes out of 757 cast on the first ballot. He had 227 on the second ballot. Speaker Fish, the next highest candidate, had 123 votes. It being plain that no candidate had sufficient strength to win a motion to adjourn until 11 o'clock this morning was passed at 10:20 p. m. After adjournment there were conferences and attempts to fix up a slate. There was talk of combinations of lesser candidates to prevent Aldridge from getting the nomination.

An Exciting Incident.

The only real exciting incident of the day was the retirement of Mr. Miller. After the report of the committee on credentials had been presented a delegate from Oneida moved that the Oneida contest be voted on separately. Before the motion was put Warner Miller rose from a seat in the Essex county delegation. The chair asked from what county the gentleman came. Mr Miller replied: "From Herkimer." Otto Irving Wise of New York made a point of order that Mr. Miller's name does not appear on the list of delegates and therefore he could not be heard. The chair ruled the point well taken. Great confusion followed. Mr. Platt rose in his place and asked unanimous consent that Mr. Miller be heard. There was great cheering. The chair rapped for order and stated that there being no objection Mr. Miller would be heard. Cheers and hisses greeted this.

Not Begging, Simply Demanding Justice.

Mr. Miller finally was heard. He said he had never known a republican convention in the state of New York to refuse a hearing to an elected delegate whether on the roll or not. He returned thanks to Mr. Platt for obtaining him the privilege. There were interruptions from the galleries as he proceeded. He said that he came not to ask a favor, but to demand justice. "Mr. Chairman, the offer was made to me since I came here and it was known that the state committee had not put my name and those of my colleagues on the roll, that I could be substituted in other counties, but I refused. (A voice replied, "That's right"). During all my political life I have never come into a state convention or any other convention by stealth or by a back door. During all those years I had behind me the loyal support of my own people in Herkimer county. And I do not come here, sir, begging anything for myself, I come simply to defend my rights. And, sir, if I did not know that I had had a fair and and honest majority of the delegates of the republican convention in Herkimer county, I would not be in this town to-day, I would not be in this hall." Applause. Mr. Miller then proceeded to recite his version of the election of himself and other delegates, and closed by declaring that they might put him out of this convention but they could not put him out of the republican party

Official Result of the Ballots.

The following is the official result of the two ballots: First ballot—Aldridge 224, Fish 111, Wadsworth 55, Black 36, Palmer 39, Baxter 59, Saxton 72, Roberts 95, Brackett 33, Ellsworth 12, Fassett 21. Second ballot—Aldridge 227, Fish 123, Wadsworth 51, Black 37, Palmer 31, Baxter 55, Saxton 61, Roberts 91, Brackett 33, Ellsworth 10, Fessett 29, Odell 5, Lexow 3, Hiscock 1. There was laughter when during the roll call in the second ballot Mr. Platt announced the vote of Tioga as one each for Aldridge, Fish, Wadsworth, Black and Baxter. The widely distributed vote of Onondaga as announced by Frank Hiscock also caused amusement.

The Platform.

The platform endorses the administration of Gov. Morton: endorses the nomination of McKinley and Hobart, and assures them the enthusiastic support of the republicans of New York; demands the enactment of a protective tariff law; praises the Raines liquor tax law; favors the improvement of highways and the construction of good roads throughout the state; reaffirms faith in the doctrine of home rule, and guarantees that that doctrine shall be applied to the Greater New York municipality. The financial plank is in part as follows: "The republican party demands that the present gold standard must be maintained, and that the way to recover our lost prosperity is to return to that wise industrial policy by which under republican rule prosperity was achieved. To the maintenance of a pure circulation of dollars of full and equal value the republican party is resolutely pledged, and for the firm establishment of that policy it now asks the support of every citizen who wishes neither to cheat nor to be cheated. No injury could be inflicted upon trade and commerce, no fraud perpetrated upon labor, no shame visited upon the national reputation, more hurtful than would be the enactment of a law compelling the people to accept, in the payment of debts, a coin for one dollar which they could spend for not much more than half that sum. The attempt to make an ounce of gold equal in value to only sixteen ounces of silver when it is now worth thirty ounces is hopeless and absurd The United States could neither take nor use one-half the silver that a free coinage law would bring to their mints This fact is so plain to the world of commerce and business that the mere announcement of the success of the democratic ticket would send gold at once to a premium, drive debtors into cruel liquidation and cause a further withdrawal of capital from investment and a further suspension of industry.'

SOUND MONEY DEMOCRATS.

Work Transacted by the Pennsylvania Convention at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—The platform adopted by the sound money democratic state convention yesterday afternoon repudiates the Chicago ticket and affirms the financial plank of the platform of the late democratic state convention at Allentown. The convention, which was held in Music hall, was called to order by William M. Singerly. In all 125 delegates were present John C. Bullit of this city was chosen permanent chairman. There was some opposition to a third ticket, but this soon disappeared A state central committee and delegates to the national convention were chosen, and the following electors-at-large were elected: William Singerly, Philadelphia; A. S. Landis, Blair; S. C. McCandless, Allegheny; John Blanchard, Centre. After the adoption of the name "Jeffersonian party" and the selection of presidential electors, the convention adjourned sine die.

STRUCK AN ICEBERG

Loss of the Moldava Due to Unavoidable Accident.

WILL BE NO OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION

Disaster Occurred in a Fog So Heavy That the Obstruction Was Not Seen Until Too Late—Thirty-Five Hours in Open Boats.

New York, Aug. 26.—The loss in mid-ocean of the British tramp steamer Moldava, from Cardiff for Halifax, by striking an iceberg, was so clearly an unavoidable accident that, it is said, there will be no official investigation. The crew, which was picked up at sea by the Anchor line steamer Circassia and brought to this port, will be sent back by the British consul, and the captain, Burnside, will take care of himself. The collision occurred during a fog so heavy that neither the captain nor the other three men on the lookout saw the berg until they were very close to it and when their efforts to avoid the accident were unavailing, although the vessel was running at only half speed, five miles an hour. The berg suddenly loomed up four points on the port bow. The helm was at once put hard a-port, but shortly after the berg appeared on the starboard bow, and, not being able to clear it, the vessel was sent astern at full speed, but too late, the ship striking bow on. At first there seemed to be no damage. The ship started off from the ice, with no other injury apparently than a scratch on the bow, but a few moments afterwards a sounding showed thirteen inches of water in the hold. The captain then ordered the engines slowly ahead and prepared to take to the boats. Nothing could be packed, but there were a few things belonging to the crew already in their bags and these were hastily thrown into the boats. The captain himself saved only his register, log book, sextant and quadrant, not even the ship's compass. Capt. Burnside did not leave the ship until the decks were awash. The boats then stood by until the ship sank beneath the water. For thirty-five hours they rowed, and then the Circassia appeared and the boats containing the castaways were taken up bodily on the davits, this being made possible by the smoothness of the sea. This disaster recalls the fate of the White Star freighter Naronic, which left Liverpool in 1893 and was never again heard of except for two lifeboats belonging to her that were afterwards picked up It was supposed that she was sunk by an iceberg.

LI HUNG CHANG.

A Dinner to the Viceroy by Former Residents of China.

New York, Aug. 26.—George F. Seward announces that the arrangements for the dinner to be given the viceroy on Saturday evening at the Waldorf by former residents of China had been completed by the committee having the matter in charge. The invitation was sent to the viceroy several weeks ago, and he immediately cabled his acceptance. Fifty gentlemen who have either resided in China or have had intimate business relations with the country will attend. The Rev. Dr. W. A. P. Martin, president of the Imperial university at Pekin, will probably make an address on behalf of those present, afterwards translating it into Chinese. Speeches will probably be made by the Rev. Dr. S. L. Baldwin, John Russell Young, John E. Ward, George F. Seward, ex-Secretary Foster, President Angell of Michigan university and others The gentlemen assisting Mr. Seward in arranging the details of the affair are: Ex-ministers to China John Russell Young and John E. Ward, Messrs. John L. Cadwalader, Edward L Burlingame, John Brisben Walker, F. D. Grant, Everett Frazar, J. G. Purdon and Drs W. A. P Martin and S. L. Baldwin

TREASURY GOLD RESERVE

Again Nearing the Danger Line, But Officials Are Hopeful.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The treasury gold reserve to-day stands at $101,-872,463 The withdrawals at New York yesterday were $95,000. During the past three weeks the loss of gold at San Francisco by the redemption of legal tenders has aggregated $3,500,-000, but it is believed the movement there has nearly spent its force. The treasury has been informed that arrangements for the further import of gold from Europe to the extent of $1,750,000 have been perfected. It is said there is now on the water bound for this country $2,000,000 in gold, and the treasury officials hope this gold on its arrival will soon find its way into the treasury

The Price of Oil in Scotland.

Glasgow, Aug 26.—A meeting of the Scotch oil companies will be held this afternoon in order to consider the fact that American oils are selling in Scotland at below the Scotch agreement prices. Some of the companies insist that the competition must be met immediately by a reduction of prices, or else they will quit the association.

BRYAN'S CALL ON HILL

Courteously and Pleasantly Received at Wolferts Roost.

OUTCOME OF THE VISIT NOT DISCLOSED

Later the Democratic Nominee Makes a Speech in Front of the Albany City Hall and at Its Close Resumes His Journey to the West.

Albany, Aug. 26.—Several thousand people crowded closely together in front of the city hall last night and listened to William J. Bryan deliver a political speech and although the reception surpassed in attendance any meeting which Mr. Bryan has addressed in the east, it was secondary in general interest to the dinner given the democratic candidate by senator David B. Hill earlier in the evening. Exactly what was said at Senator Hill's residence or whether any agreements between the two leaders of the democracy were made may never be known, but general opinion naturally ascribes to the bread-breaking an important place in the present campaign. How near Mr. Bryan and the senator came together politically through their talk is something neither will tell. The Buffalo convention, however, may bring to light something about what was done, but in the meanwhile the public will be kept in ignorance on the subject.

A Courteous Greeting.

Senator Hill's guests, who were assembled at his beautiful home to greet Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, were Judge and Mrs. D. Cady Herrick, Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Pratt, ex-Senator Norton Chase and Gen. and Mrs. Ferdinand P. Earle of New York. Aside from the bare announcement of the names of the guests the senator declines to have anything to say concerning the dinner. It was stated, however, by some of those present that Senator Hill's greeting to Mr. Bryan when the latter drove up in his carriag was calculated to put Mr. Bryan entirely at his ease, being very courteous and pleasant.

Speaks at Albany.

The train on which Mr. Bryan traveled pulled into the Union station at 5:05. A big crowd had gathered to see the democratic nominee. They pushed and crowded each other, and when Mr. Bryan appeared the crowd cheered. The police forced a passage for the nominee and his wife. Ex-senator Norton Chase and Louis W. Pratt, collector of internal revenue for the district, met Mr. and Mrs. Bryan at the train in behalf of Senator Hill, and after they had taken their places in the carriage beside the senator's guests the carriage whirled away to Wolferts Roost, Senator Hill's suburban home. A reception committee of 100 democrats had also met Mr. Bryan at the station. The democratic nominee was scheduled to appear at the city hall meeting at 6:50, but he came fifteen minutes late. A temporary stand, decorated with bunting, had been erected on the west side of the municipal building, and the big gathering crowded about the stand an hour before Mr. Bryan made his appearance. A brass band stationed on the platform gave the people the first intimation that the young Nebraskan was near by striking up "Hail to the Chief." A moment later and Mr. Bryan, flushed with a struggle through a throng of his supporters, came as though from a catapult through the doorway leading to the stand, closely followed by ex-Senator Chase and Collector Pratt. His appearance was greeted with cheers There was more cheering as Mr. Bryan stepped forward, and when it had died away he began his speech. This was not very long, and at its conclusion he and Mrs. Bryan were driven to the depot and the journey to the west was resumed.

SUICIDE FOLLOWING FAILURE.

Tragic Result of the Closing of a Private Bank at Lowell, Mich.

Lowell, Mich., Aug. 26.—Charles Church, junior member of the private banking house of C. J. Church & Co, shot and fatally wounded his wife and then committed suicide yesterday. The bank closed its doors Monday, giving as a reason that it was unable to realize upon its assets. Deputy Sheriff Cowan called at the younger Church's house to serve a writ of attachment. When Church saw him he locked the door, and immediately afterwards three pistol shots were heard. The door was broken in and Mr. and Mrs. Church were found lying on the floor, the former dead and the latter mortally wounded. The elder Church has disappeared.

Henke Was Murdered.

Burlington, N. J., Aug. 26.—The coroner's jury in the case of John T. Henke, who was found strangled to death in his store here on Sunday morning last, returned a verdict accusing Thomas Cromwell and another person, unknown, of the deed

London, Aug. 26.—The third Blue Book on the Venezuelan question has just been issued. It deals especially with the Schomburgk line.

ALLEGED TREATMENT OF DALY.

A Dark Picture Drawn by the Kilkenny Journal.

Dublin, Aug. 26.—The Kilkenny Journal, commenting upon the release of John Daly, the Irish political prisoner, from Portland prison, says: "The Indians' torture of captives is humane when compared with torture inflicted upon Daly in England." Continuing, the periodical mentioned refers to the allusion in the queen's speech to the outrages in Armenia, and adds: "The queen can find nearer home more vent for her hypocritical tears than among the Kurds," and asks, "Where's the queen's clemency? Daly was released a few months before death would have released him, and three others have been driven mad by tortures in penal servitude compared with which Siberian exile is drawing-room imprisonment. This is the way Victoria wishes to signalize her record reign. She would not have been a loss to the victims of her brutal rule in Ireland if she had gone years ago. At the present moment she knows she is standing in the way of those who wish to see her in her royal sepulchre, and she has neither the grace to abdicate nor the humanity to open her prisons to Irishmen until they precede her on the voyage from which none return."

DR. GALLAGHER IS INSANE.

Why His Release from Portland Prison Has Been Delayed.

London, Aug. 26.—An interview by a representative of the United-Associated Presses was had last night with Attorney Gaffney, who three years ago appeared on behalf of Dr. Thomas Gallagher of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of the dynamiters sentenced in June, 1883, to life imprisonment, before a commission appointed to inquire regarding the question of Dr. Gallagher's sanity. Mr. Gaffney stated that the government hesitates to release Dr. Gallagher under the care of Dr. McBride alone and is awaiting for the appointment of an additional guardian, fearing that Gallagher may escape from Dr. McBride and, roaming through the country, create a sensation. Mr. Gaffney further states that all of the convicted dynamiters who have been released declare that Dr. Gallagher has become hopelessly insane through the harshness of the treatment he has received during his thirteen years' imprisonment. Dr. Gallagher, it was authoritatively stated yesterday, is to be released from Portland prison, where he is confined, in the course of the next ten days.

Escape and Insanity of Whitehead.

London, Aug. 26.—A dispatch from Skibbereen to a news agency confirms the statement published in an evening newspaper that Albert George Whitehead, the recently released Irish-American dynamiter, who escaped from the home of relatives at Skibbereen and disappeared, has been found. He became completely deranged after meeting his mother.

SULTAN OF ZANZIBAR DEAD.

Sailors and Marines Landed—Fear That Trouble May Follow.

Zanzibar, Aug. 26.—The sultan of Zanzibar, Hamed bin Thwain bin Said, is dead. He was about 40 years of age, was a nephew of the late Sultans Ali, Khalifa and Burghash, and succeeded to the sultanate at the death of the Sultan Ali, on March 5, 1893. He was one of a number of claimants and was selected as being the most fitting by the British government, which exercises a protectorate over the sultanate.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The state department has received a cable message announcing that the sultan of Zanzibar died yesterday. The message adds: "Said Alid holds the palace; sailors and marines landed; rioting feared."

Quarantine Against Cuba.

Colon, Colombia, Aug. 26.—A decree has been issued by the government imposing a quarantine of from one to six days upon all vessels arriving here from Cuban ports or from ports where it is suspected yellow fever exists. Advices from Ecuador report that the rebels have won a victory over the government troops near Ibarra.

WILL LIVE IN TENTS

Unique Honeymoon Adopted by H. Payne Whitney and Bride.

A SOJOURN IN THE WILDERNESS

The Young Couple Will Spend the Next Few Weeks on a Game Reserve—An Old Farm House Handy in the Event of a Storm.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 26.—H. Payne Whitney and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the most unique manner. The proposed game preserve, for which a few gentlemen, of whom W. C. Whitney is one, have been buying up the farms in the vicinity of Lenox, and which now comprises twelve square miles of hilly, woodland country, is to be the scene of their first few weeks of married life. Here, high up in the mountains, some two thousand feet above the sea, they will first be "at home" in a couple of tents with a remodeled farmhouse to flee to in case of storm. A short distance away there is still under construction a more pretentious colonial cottage, upon which workmen, with all the facilities for modern quick construction, are at work day and night. It is hoped that this new shelter will be completed within a couple of weeks, and it is expected that it will be the residence of the pair until it is time to return to the city for the winter, though if "The Breakers" are to remain open their usual time this year it is not improbable that they will return here for a few weeks, since it has ordinarily been the custom for the family to spend the holidays here.

Simple Wedding Ceremony.

The wedding of Mr. Whitney, eldest son of the former secretary of the navy, William C. Whitney, and Gertrude, oldest daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt, at "The Breakers," Mr. Vanderbilt's summer mansion, took place yesterday and was a brilliant event. Mr. Vanderbilt was wheeled to where the ceremony took place and gave his daughter away. The report that Cornelius, jr., and his wife would be present proved untrue. The wedding was conspicuous for its simplicity, though the floral decorations were magnificent. Pink predominated in the dresses of the bridesmaids. The bride's dress itself was pure white with old duchess lace and pearl trimmings. It was cut moderately low and looked very simple, but rich. The costumes of the bridesmaids consisted of a skirt of mousseline de soie, made over taffeta with a scalloped ruffle of valenciennes lace; the waist was of mousseline de soie, made on a tight lining of white taffeta silk. The most striking feature of the costume was a wide-brimmed hat made of pink mousseline de soie and white plumes, giving a jaunty effect. The costumes of the two children were similar to those of the bridesmaids, except that the skirts were short.

Affectionate Greetings.

The bride carried pink roses. The bridesmaids carried pink roses and lilies of the valley, tied with a broad pink satin ribbon. Mr. Whitney wore a boutonniere of gardenias. The ushers wore lilies of the valley. Franko's orchestra was hidden beyond a wall of cut flowers and furnished the musical programme, which concluded with the "Star Spangled Banner." The ceremony was performed in an alcove formed by lilies and Augusta Victoria roses between the pillars. The bride and bridegroom knelt at a prie dieu of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley. At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, performed by Bishop Potter, Mr. Whitney placed the plain gold ring on his bride's finger, kissed her and then handed her to her father, whom she kissed several times. She then kissed her mother and the pair passed into the gray room, where they received under a canopy of tropical foliage.

Savings Bank Treasurer Sentenced.

Fitchburg, Mass., Aug. 26.—Judge Lilley yesterday afternoon sentenced Hiram P. Gerald, ex-treasurer of the Brookfield Savings bank, to not less than seven or more than ten years in state prison, one day solitary, for the embezzlement of $15,000 from the bank.

"Washing made graceful."

(After a sketch in New York Truth.)

We want to show it, because this seems to be a woman who uses Pearline (use without soap). She's doing no work to speak of, you see—she doesn't look as if she ever had to. She appears to be rinsing out the clothes, after letting them soak in Pearline (no soap use) and water, which is about all the labor required.

The washboard we don't understand—unless she's washing it. Women who use Pearline (use without soap) don't need a washboard. They don't have that tiresome, wearing rubbing over it. But for cleaning washboards or wood work or paint or anything of the kind, then they want Pearline.

Washing can't be made graceful unless it is made easy. Of all the ways of washing that are perfectly harmless, the easiest, quickest, most economical, is with Pearline. 495

THE HOME CALLING.

Far off the hills are calling where fair the country shines,
And the brown thrush pipes his treble in the tangle of the vines;
I hear the dews a-falling where the meadow daisies foam,
And hills and streams are calling: "Come home—come home—come home!"

I hear it in the blowing of the wild winds o'er the dells—
The singing of the mocking birds, the ringing of the bells,
In twilight shadows falling on fields I loved to roam—
That low, sweet calling—calling: "Come home—come home—come home!"
It tinkles in the fountains—that message sweet to me;
It echoes o'er the mountains and sings across the sea;
The bee is in the blossom, the lark flies o'er the loam,
And love with yearning bosom calls still: "Come home—come home!"

"Come home!" The sad winds sing it across the rippled rills;
"Come home!" The glad bells ring it; "The night is on the hills!"
"Come home! The lights are shining to guide the feet that roam."
And on love's breast reclining in dreams my heart goes home!

—Frank L. Stanton, in Chicago Times-Herald.

A BRIDE ROSE.

She lived in a little country town. Such a very little town that, after you went up the dusty street, on which there was a line of low, squat buildings bearing legends on their several weather-beaten fronts of "Family Groceries," "Drug Store," Post Office" and "General Supplies Sold Here"—why, there remained no more town to see.

The rest of the old place just trailed off into scattered buildings, some occupied, but many falling to ruin for want of the repair of occupancy.

But if you went swiftly along the quiet country road after awhile you would come upon fair white cottages, trim and neat, set in the midst of broad acres of cultivation; and there would always be space reserved for the sweet-smelling blooms of old-fashioned flowers, such as country folk have time to thrust into the soft, brown loam.

In one of these white cottages she lived. A little fair "old maid," as people called her. A maidenly soul, to be sure, looked out from her sweet eyes, and perhaps a certain gentle precision in her neat attire, and an adherence to ways which Miss Floribel Rose had proved to be good, might have earned for her the epithet considered so unwelcome. But to me she looked the very essence of youth and purity and unconscious innocence.

Be all that as it may, as I started out by saying, she lived in the country, and in a pretty cottage, with bright green blinds and broad surrounding fields, and the prettiest flower garden in the whole village.

Miss Floribel had a perfect passion for "growing things," and it was popularly believed that should she elect to bid the town pump return to its original wildwood condition there would at once appear those little nibs and nobs of green which show the beginning of growth!

Miss Floribel wrought no miracles, however, save those needing great patience and constant care. But it was a fact that, under her gentle care, flowers seemed to become sentient things and appeared to develop consciences of their own, which obligated them to a certain amount of bud and bloom, in return for her ministrations.

We will peep at her as she walks leisurely through the small gate which divides the flower from the kitchen garden on a balmy May morning. She is a tiny woman—small head, small hands, small feet and delicate features, with flower-like ripples and lines along her gentle fairness. Her hair is soft and brown, and waves away from a sweet, placid forehead in smart, crisp little ripples, which necessitate frequent applications of Miss Floribel's small pink palm in a series of subjugatory pats and pressures. Her eyes are of a deep and shadowy blue, and they look straight out into this workaday world with an expression of pleased surprise at finding it so "good." Her figure is all soft, warm curves; and she has many dimples which come and go in all manner of unexpected places. For instance, who would ever expect to see a little quavering dimple set up for itself high on the delicate bloom of an "old maid's" cheek? Very high up, so that when she smiled at you, which she very frequently did, there it was, a provoking piece of prettiness, near to the sweep of the curling lashes and in a nest of soft rose-color, which was the flush on Miss Floribel's sweet cheek.

On one side of the long, deep gallery, or veranda, that ran all across the front of the white cottage grew a tall rose-bush, with long, delicately-fluted foliage and buds of pure, snow-whiteness, gleaming in the midst of all the pale greenness of the bush. This rose held a strange place in Miss Floribel's life.

Twenty years ago there had gone from the village a gay, rollicking lad, with a reckless record back of him and all sorts of possibilities fronting him. He was beautiful, to begin with, with the beauty of slim, graceful lines, high-spirited and clear-cut features and deep and rich coloring. He was gifted; learning all that the crabbed old scholar who taught the village school could teach him, in the time in which the other lads had just begun to comprehend, and assimilating all of outside information that came his way. He was a favorite with all who knew him, as much for his lonely, solitary existence as for his charm of person and manner.

About his mother had clustered the village romance. An undutiful daughter—a runaway marriage—and the inevitable sequel; the return to the stately mansion which had been her childhood's home, with death on her young brow, despair in her broken heart and a son in her poor, frail arms to hold up as peace offering to her only parent left, her stern old father. The mother died during the first year of her daughter's absence.

But Leonard d'Orville (which was the boy's sole inheritance from a worthless father—a high-sounding name) was "inclined to be wild," and these inclinations had been crystallized into set forms of as much callow wickedness as the sleepy old village could furnish, by the undue severity of his grandfather. So the time came when Leonard flung on his back a parcel containing a change of clothing, his little savings bank, his mother's picture and a bundle of notes written in a girlish hand, with, among them, a long tress of rippling brown hair cut from his sweetheart's head. Bidding his implacable enemy (and grandfather) a merry good-by, he took his way along the highway whereon travel set its tide cityward.

But before leaving, he spent an hour beside a brook which chattered away in the rear of Dame Rose's kitchen garden. Nor was he alone; for a fair-haired girl with long and rippling curls sat near him, and their hands were closely clasped, and more than once, as the lad's eyes darkened with the overpowering forethought of the coming years and their loneliness, the tender heart of his companion would prompt her to lean still nearer and meet, and return—the kiss he turned to give. And as they passed through the garden in the brooding twilight, the pale buds of the rose, newly flowered, caught Leonard's eyes. Plucking one, he held it against the flowing sweep of the girl's soft hair, looking dreamily at the pure curves of the cheek, turned to hide the brimming eyes; at the tip of the small ear that peeped from the abundant curls, and at the fair bud gleaming like a star against the brown waves. Then his voice deepened to manhood's earnestness, as he whispered:

"Some day, Floribel, my sweet Floribel, I'll send you a bunch of these pale roses, and then I'll follow soon—soon enough for them to be still fresh for our wedding."

The lad had a world of latent romance in his heart, and it all welled out in his love for this sweetheart of his boyish days.

"And I," Floribel had whispered, "will never wear a bride rose until you come to me."

"Swear it, Floribel, swear it!" and he would not leave her until her gentle eyes were lifted and her rose-red lips vowed to wear no bridal flower, save at her wedding with her lover, Leonard.

II.

And year after year, as the girl saw the thriving rose tree begin to bud, would her innocent thoughts cluster about the possibilities that her immediate future might hold. And year after year the spring passed and the summer came and went, and there was no break in the quiet monotony of her secluded life. Time, the merciful, had smoothed away those graven lines of remembrance, and her life began to be filled with other interests, and the memory of her boyish love remained only as an evanescent odor, that came and went with the flowers or those long, pearly buds that grew beside the cottage door.

Waves of the doings of the great dames of fashion and of form had even widened their circle to take in the modest cluster of houses and the one street of public shops called Rosedale (after Miss Floribel's father), and the "Society for the Comfort of the Poor" had for many years been a thriving institution, with Miss Floribel for president. As spring came in, huge crates of flowers would leave the nearest station as contributions from country to city, sent directly to a sister society for distribution to the members.

In this part of her useful life Miss Floribel had contrived to weave the memory of her early romance. First, I must tell you, that beyond a few floating rumors as to his whereabouts no word had ever come to her, over the weary years, of the lad who had promised such fealty. But each year there would go from the hand of the lonely woman a little token of remembrance. In the packing of the blossoms, over which Miss Floribel always presided, there would go the fairest and most perfect of the buds of the bride rose tree, bearing a tiny slip of paper, inscribed "In memory of Leonard." A harmless bit of romance, indulged in secretly by a woman whose heart was as pure as the bud she touched. At first, tears were the dew of the blossom; but now the deed was only done as an act of gentle remembrance, as we lay a flower upon the sod that years have won to ripened greenness.

The hospital wards were full, but the interest had so centered about the pretty, pallid child, lying patiently on her pillow, awaiting the coming of the surgeon, that a crowd of nurses and attendants stood near, waiting to anticipate her slightest wish. Through the long "aisles of pain" had fluttered a bevy of bright-faced, sweet-voiced women and the whole atmosphere bore witness to their gentle ministrations, for on each pillow there lay a blossom fresh and fair, and by each cot there stood a bunch of flowers, some rare, all beautiful.

It really seemed by a process of "fitness" that the bud which lay within reach of the little wasted hand, resting so quietly on the quiet breast, was as fair as a pearl, and it seemed as did the child, an emblem of purity and peace.

This day had been set for an operation, to perform which a celebrated surgeon was coming from a distance. The operation was to be done in the interests of science; hence the cost had not been a matter of consideration; otherwise the child, being a daughter of the poor, would have exhaled her life away in prolonged and unrelieved torture.

At last they essayed to lift the light form and bear it to the operating room. Gentle hands were about her, but she murmured, and one leaned down to listen:

"My rosebud! My beautiful flower! May I not carry it with me?"

And she smiled contentedly as her small, fevered hand clasped the long, flexile stem.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Pineapple Preserves.

Fill with cold water a kettle containing six large, ripe pineapples, and boil them till tender. Drain off the water, and when the fruit is cool pare it, remove the leaves, and cut into slices half an inch thick. Take out the core, leaving a round hole in the center of each slice; weigh the fruit, and to each pound allow a pound of loaf sugar. Cover the bottom of a dish with the sugar, on this place a layer of the pineapple, and so on until the dish is full, finishing with the sugar. Set the dish aside in a cool place for 24 hours; then drain the slices from the sirup, put the sirup in a kettle and boil till the skum ceases to rise, skimming carefully; put in the pineapple and boil for 20 minutes longer.—Good Housekeeping.

Your Boy Won't Live a month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at McMonagle & Rogers' Drug Store.

CAR SHOP ECHOES.

A Report from the O. and W. Car Shops That is Attracting Public Attention.

As Mr. Cyrus Coddington, of No. 150 Wickham avenue, repaired the cars in the O. and W. car shops: as he stripped them down to the frame, rebuilt them, or patched them so as to make them presentable, it may have struck him that mankind is very like railroad cars. Some of them run for years escaping smashup, derailings and pulling through ordinary wear and tear with very little indication of being untrustworthy. Some bedecked with paint and tinsel run along for a time only to find themselves in the repair shop. Some require building up from the frame and some have very little frame or anything else to repair.

"Seven years ago" Mr. Coddington says, "I had an attack of kidney complaint, a very severe attack. It left me and I was not again bothered until a very short time ago." This was his first introduction to the repair shop. Seven years later he was on the trestles again. Continuing he says: "The last time it did not take so long to straighten me out and I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for it. I got a box at J. E. Mills' drug store. I had to get something for my back ached acutely. I couldn't stoop or lift and the urine went wrong. After using Doan's Kidney Pills the pain left me and the urine rightened itself. They did all that could be expected of them."

The Kidneys will go wrong—cold—strains—exercise—indulgence in dissipation or pleasures force them to the repair shop. It may only be a screw loose somewhere. It may be the entire fabric or tissue requires a thorough overhauling a complete renovating. Nothing can equal Doan's Kidney Pills as a restorer or renovator."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold for 50 cents per box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Sent by mail on receipt of price. For sale by all dealers.

MAKES THE MEN VERY WEAK.

A Sample of Domestic Woe That Long-Suffering Husbands Have to Endure.

A good many hundreds, and even thousands, of long-suffering husbands can bear sorrowful testimony to the fact that this is the sort of catechism the wives of their bosoms subject them to every time they put on their hats to go out in the evening:

"Where are you going?"

"Oh, I'm just going out for a few minutes."

"Where?"

"Oh, nowhere in particular."

"What for?"

"Oh, nothing."

"Why do you go, then?"

"Well, I want to go; that's why."

"Do you have to go?"

"I don't know that I do."

"Why do you go, then?"

"Because."

"Because what?"

"Well, simply because."

"Going to be gone long?"

"No."

"How long?"

"I don't know."

"Anybody going with you?"

"No."

"Well, it's strange that you can't be content to stay at home for a few minutes. Don't you be gone long, will you?"

"No."

"See that you don't."

This is one reason why so many marriages are a dead, flat fizzle and failure.—Chicago Chronicle.

These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of Constipation and Sick Headache. For Malaria and Liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold by McMonagle & Rogers, Druggists.

Poison ivy, insect bites, bruises, scalds, burns, are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great pile cure.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrhoea it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure.

R. C. Joiner, Allen P. O., Hillsdale Co., Mich., says: "Nothing gave my rheumatism such quick relief as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil."

The whole system is drained and undermined by indolent ulcers and open sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve speedily heals them. It is the best pile cure known.

THE COMPANIES NOT LOOTED.

Diamond Match and New York Biscuit Not in a State of Collapse.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The following interview has been given out by the president of the Chicago stock exchange over his own signature: "The report published in New York papers to the effect that the Diamond Match company and New York Biscuit company had been looted and were in a state of collapse is an error, and one which I deem it my duty to correct. As chairman of the committee appointed by the Chicago stock exchange to examine into the conditions of these properties, I can say that no such conditions as alleged do exist as will be seen by the report of our committee which will be handed in Wednesday next. Further, there have been no failures among the brokers and the committee is hopeful of being able to formulate a plan by which the stocks for the account will be taken care of before the opening of the exchange, which will protect the brokers from loss."

The Mikado's American Tour.

We learn on excellent authority that the mikado contemplates a tour through the United States and Europe at some future time. If he is able to carry out this plan he will be the first Japanese emperor who has ever been allowed to leave his dominions. It seems, however, that there are great difficulties in the way, the old fanatical Japanese party objecting strongly to so remarkable an innovation. The Turkish fanatics did the same thing when Abdul Aziz announced his intention of paying a visit to Paris and London. They were unable to prevent it, and that luckless sovereign was the first Turkish sovereign who ever crossed the frontiers of his empire, except as a conqueror. The mikado is a highly educated man, who speaks several European languages and his visit, should it ever take place, will be an event of great interest.—London Chronicle.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

Office of the Secretary of State,

ALBANY, August 1, 1896.

Pursuant to the provisions of section seven, chapter nine hundred and nine, Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section seven, article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people of said State, for the purpose of voting thereon at the next general election in this State, to be held on the third day of November eighteen hundred and ninety-six.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, RELATING TO THE FOREST PRESERVE.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven of article seven of the constitution be amended, so as to read as follows:

§ 7. The lands of the State, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. Except as authorized by this section, they shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, to be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. The Legislature may authorize the leasing for such term as it may by law fix, of a parcel of not more than five acres of land in the forest preserve to any one person for camp and cottage purposes. The Legislature may also authorize the exchange of lands owned by the State, situate outside the forest preserve, or lands not owned by the State situate within the forest preserve. The Legislature may also authorize the sale of lands belonging to the State, situate outside the forest preserve, but the money so obtained shall not be used except for the purchase of lands situate within the forest preserve, and which, when so purchased, shall become a part of the forest preserve.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators, and that in conformity to section one, article fourteen of the constitution, to be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

STATE OF NEW YORK: }
IN SENATE, }
April 23, 1896. }

This bill was duly passed, a majority of all the Senators elected voting in favor thereof, three-fifths being present.

By order of the Senate,
CHARLES T. SAXTON, President.

STATE OF NEW YORK: }
IN ASSEMBLY, }
April 29, 1896. }

This bill was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the Assembly voting in favor thereof, three-fifths being present.

By order of the Assembly,
HAMILTON FISH, Speaker.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss:

I have compared the preceding copy of concurrent resolution, proposing an amendment to article seven, section seven of the Constitution, with the original concurrent resolution on file in this office, and I do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom, and of the whole thereof.

[L. S.] Given under my hand and the seal of office of the Secretary of State, at the city of Albany, this first day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety six.
JOHN PALMER, Secretary of State.

The foregoing Concurrent Resolution is published once a week for three months next preceding the next general election in conformity to the aforesaid provisions, in two public newspapers in each county in this State representing respectively the two political parties polling the highest number of votes at the last general election, and in one additional newspaper in each county for every one hundred thousand people in such county as shown by the last preceding State Enumeration.

JOHN PALMER, Secretary of State.

FORM FOR SUBMISSION OF AMENDMENT.

Shall the proposed amendment to section seven of article seven of the Constitution relating to the forest preserve become a law?

JOHN PALMER, Secretary of State.

ALBERT GRAHAM, }
JOHN H. BORLAND, } Town Com.
JAMES I. VAN SICKLE. }
Dated Aug. 25, 1896.

A very dark horse, Black in fact, won the gubernatorial sweepstakes at Saratoga.

At the Republican State Convention: yesterday, places on committees were assigned the following members of the delegation from this district: Resolutions, Clarence Lexow; Permanent Organization, Ed. Tompkins; Credentials, L. F. Goodsell. Ben Odell will be continued on the State Committee.

The Albany Argus continues to publish letters from prominent Democrats in all parts of the State on the political situation in their respective localities. These letters are agreed that there is a steady growth of silver sentiment and that Democratic defections will be much more than made good by the votes of Republicans, who will refuse to support their party in a financial policy which they see is opposed to their own interests and which they believe is ruinous to general prosperity.

The Springfield Republican learns that Hanna has assessed $500,000 on New England as its share of the Republican campaign fund and has notified the chief beneficiaries of the gold standard and of high protective duties that the money must be forthcoming. The amount demanded is far in excess of the tribute levied in 1888 by Wanamaker and his assistant "fat fryers" and makes some of the eastern money kings wonder whether free silver would be worse than this giving up of their substance at the command of a party boss.

The speech of Frank S. Black, temporary chairman of the Republican State Convention was a series of sneers at Democrats and Democracy, and if its purpose had been to drive bolting Democrats back to their old party allegiance, its tone could not have been more contemptuous or malignant. Here is a specimen sentence:

> A man who for the past ten years has voted the Democratic ticket in the State of New York is beyond prayers. If he votes with the Republicans this fall it is not because he has become better, but because he has become alarmed. If he labors for the success of the Republican party now it is because he fears the success of his own.

The prominence which McKinley insists on giving the tariff, coupled with certain recent utterances of Mark Hanna, suggests that a new plan of campaign has been determined on. It is admitted even by Republicans that in the doubtful States all attempts to stay the tide of silver sentiment have utterly failed, and it is easily possible that Hanna has ordered a beating of tariff tom-toms all all along the line in the hope of scaring back into their old allegiances the thousands and tens of thousands who have left their party or are about to leave it because they see in free silver coinage the only hope of relief from conditions that have become intolerable. If such a course has been decided on it means that Hanna deems it better politics to campaign for Republican votes than to seek the support of bolting Democrats.

Five votes were cast for Odell and three for Lexow on the second ballot at Saratoga, yesterday. It isn't every Congressional district that has gubernatorial possibilities that are apparent to eight out of 757 men.

It cheers the hearts of loyal Democrats to read of the ovations given, yesterday, to Mr. Bryan at Kingston, Albany, Utica and other places. Mere curiosity could not draw such crowds as assembled to hear the candidate, and the enthusiasm with which his speeches were received showed that his words touched responsive chords in the breasts of his hearers.

The Orange county delegates scattered their votes at the Republican State Convention, yesterday. On the first ballot four voted for Aldridge, four for Fish, three for Wadsworth, one for Black and,—shame that there must always be one kicker in Odell's delegations, one for Roberts, whom the machine loathes and abhors even as it does Warner Miller. A Rockland delegate, too, went wrong and frittered away a vote on Saxton, who is not in favor with the machine. Odell should look a little more closely after his fences and see that only men of tried and proven loyalty to him and the organization go to conventions. A boss who cannot keep his immediate followers in line is not the kind of a boss who is asked to come up higher.

THE BICYCLE RACES.

The Attendance Only Fair—Other Attractions Detracted—Good Racing.

The bicycle races at the Campbell track, this afternoon, are not as well attended as they deserved to be, although the crowd is estimated at about 300. The Erie excursion, which took over 300 people out of the city and the clam bake at Midway were rival attractions that captured many who would otherwise have attended the races.

The first race called was the one mile novice in which there were four starters. In the last half mile Cooley and Terhune collided and both were thrown and Terhune lost the tire from one wheel. It was declared no race and will be run over again.

In the half mile open race there were seven starters. Ray Dawson was the winner, W. H. Owen, of the Kings County Wheelmen, was second, and W. S. Slavin, of Suffern, third. Time—1:04⅗.

The half mile boy's race was next. There were seven starters in this, O. E. Murphy, of Tuxedo, being the winner, Wiley Smith, of Middletown second and Robert Terbune, of Middletown, third. Time 1:10⅖.

The one mile tandem race was won by Owen and O'Connor, of the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, against Henshaw and Barbeau, of the Riverside Wheelmen. Time—2:11⅘.

Can't Eat

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish. They need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that distress after eating and internal misery only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and efficiently relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

FRANK S. BLACK FOR GOVERNOR

Nominated on the First Ballot, This Morning—The Nomination a Surprise to the Other Candidates.

BY UNITED PRESS.

SARATOGA, Aug. 26.—Frank S. Black, of Rensselaer county, was nominated or Governor by the Republican convention on the first ballot, this morning.

His nomination was a most decided surprise to the other candidates and their friends. No hint of the purpose of Platt to favor the Rensselaer man had been given out and this morning the friends of Aldridge, Fish, Saxton and other candidates professed to be sure of their favorite winning. Aldridge claimed to have 290 votes and both Fish and Saxton were confident that they had made gains during the night.

Platt was cheered as he entered the convention hall. When the convention had been called to order, Sheard, of Herkimer, reviewed the fight for delegates in that county, and declared that Warner Miller had done the Sheard delegates an injustice, yesterday, when he questioned their rights to seats.

When Black's nomination appeared certain during the progress of the balloting, Sutherland, of Monroe, moved that the nomination be made unanimous, and the motion was carried. Black was escorted to the platform, and expressed his appreciation of the honor.

A motion for a recess was cried down, and candidates for Lieutenant-Governor were then placed in nomination.

OTHER NOMINATIONS.

Timothy E. Woodruff, of Brooklyn, was nominnated for Lieutenant-Governor and Judge Vann, of Oneida, for Court of Appeals.

The convention adjourned sine die.

HILTON, HUGHES & CO. FAIL

Dull Trade and Tight Money Force the Big Concern to Make an Assignment.

BY UNITED PRESS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The dry goods firm of Hilton, Hughes & Co. made an assignment to-day.

The assignment is said to be due to the stringency of money and the contraction of trade. Every creditor will be paid in full. The embarrassment is said to be due to the uncertainty caused by the agitation of the money question.

The firm was one of the largest and best known in the country, having been established by the late Alexander T. Stewart. The liabilities and assets will run into millions. When the 1,500 employes reached the store, this morning, they were startled to find it closed and the police guarding the doors. They were informed they would be paid tomorrow.

The assignee says in a statement given the press, that stringency of money caused the assignment, and that in no other way was it possible to close the business with equal justice to all creditors.

BRYAN'S TRIP ACROSS NEW YORK

Greeted by Crowds at Utica, Oneida and Syracuse—Speaks to 5,000 People in the Salt City.

By United Press.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Bryan reached here, this morning, from Utica. Bryan made speeches at Rome and Oneida, and was listened to with interest by large crowds.

Several thousand greeted Bryan here and cheered him and his wife. They were driven to the Yates House. Bryan was subsequently escorted to Hanover square where he addressed five thousand people. He said: "The people who are opposing the nominations made at Chicago are doing it because they know that the success of that ticket will overthrow those who think that they are greater than the government (Cheers) I say those men are great offenders and our warfare is against them." Bryan then went into an explanation of the moneyquestion. He left for Buffalo at 12:30.

The Excursion to Shohola Glen—Many Prizes Offered.

White Eagle Council is arranging to make its excursion to Shohola Glen, Friday, the event of the season. Tribes and councils of Red Men and other societies from Newburgh, Walden, Warwick, Goshen, Ellenville, Port Jervis and other places will be largely represented.

Sealed and elegant prizes will be given for the following contests:

First—For the member of the D. of P. appearing in the best or most appropriate Squaw Costume.

Second—For the member of the Tribe appearing in the best or most appropriate Indian Costume.

Third—To the Council, D. of P., giving the best Indian Ghost Dance.

Fourth—To the Tribe giving the best Indian War Dance.

Fifth—To the Society outside of the D. of P. and Red Men, giving the biggest turnout with the excursion.

In all probability there will be more prizes given for different other sports, which will be made known at the Glen on the day of the excursion.

Special train leaves James street at 8:30 a. m., stopping at Howells, Otisville, Guymard, Port Jervis and Sparrowbush.

Special trolley cars leave Goshen at 7:45 a. m., to connect with train, and meets train on its return.

MUST SIGN THEIR NAMES.

Police Cannot Act on Anonymous Complaints—A Case of Alleged Cruelty to a Child.

Scarcely a day passes without an anonymous communication being received at police headquarters, complaining of disorderly houses or disorderly persons. The police cannot act upon such complaints, and those who write without signing their proper names might as well save the time and trouble. Complaints backed by evidence or testimony are always received by the Recorder, and that is the only way for a good citizen to act in such cases.

A letter received, this morning, complains of a neighbor who is acting with heartless cruelty toward a motherless child. If the writer will call at the police headquarters and file a proper complaint the authorities will have the power to make the investigation.

To Cleanse the System

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently overcome habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds, or fevers, use Syrup of Figs.

VICTORY FOR THE ASYLUMS.

Played in Their Old Time Form, Yesterday, and Defeated the Cuban X Giants 10 to 8—Notes of the Game.

The Asylums had a strong team in the field, yesterday, and won a game from their old opponents, the Cuban X Giants, in something like their old time style. The Cubans had their strongest battery, Nelson and Clarence Williams, in the points, but the Asylums bunched their hits in the second and fourth innings and, aided by some wild pitching, scored nine runs. Shea's home run hit in the third inning was the only other score, and but two hits were made during the remaining innings.

Deegan was extremely wild, and the wonder is that the Asylums won the game. He sent eleven men to first on called balls, hit a batter and had a wild pitch. His splendid support, however, saved the game.

Clarence Williams, who is enjoying a vacation, is a member of the Harrisburg, Pa., police force, but has not forgotten how to play the game. His "kicking" and good natured coaching were features of the game.

Shea, the deaf mute, is a great favorite with the crowd, and his home run hit in the third was greeted with cheers, which were renewed when Dr. Talcott presented him with the usual five dollar bill.

Chris Genegal, who has been playing with the Millville Club of the New Jersey Southern League, all summer, was on first base for the Asylums. He plays the bag much better than he formerly did, but did not get in one of his old time over-the-road hits.

Burke, a new man, caught a fairly good game, but had several passed balls and missed several opportunities to throw runners out at third base.

Beattie plays a good game at third base, but should receive more encouragement from the crowd and the players.

Capt. Jack Degnan umpired the game to the satisfaction of everybody.

"I'VE KETCHED YOU."

Saw Her Husband With Another Woman and Shouted a Warning of Trouble.

The passengers on a crowded car from the park, yesterday afternoon, were greatly surprised by one of their number, a woman, who jumped to her feet as the car passed through East Main street, and shouted: "I've ketched you! I've ketched you!" at the same time pointing in the direction of a man and woman standing on the side of the street, apparently waiting for a car going to the park.

The woman was very much excited, and explained to persons near her that the man was her husband and the woman was one whom she had suspected of trifling with his affections for some time.

OBITUARY.

Elizabeth L. Willard.

Elizabeth Leone, only child of Francis A. Willard, of the Newburgh Register, died, yesterday morning, in her sixteenth year. She was a bright and attractive girl, whose many lovable qualities had won her a strong hold on the affections of all who knew her. We join with other friends of the bereaved parents in sympathy for them in their great sorrow.

Will Not Lose His Hand.

It was reported on the street, to-day, that Darwin Musgrave, who has been suffering from blood poisoning in one of his hands, would necessarily lose that very important member. We are glad to say, however, that such is not the case, but on the contrary his hand is improving nicely and his physician is thoroughly satisfied with the progress being made under his treatment.

A New Business Block to be Erected.

Hopkins Brothers, proprietors of the Economy Store, have purchased the fine large lot and house thereon on North street adjoining on the north the building in which they are now located. It is their intention to erect a brick business block.

The Volksfest.

The medals that will be awarded as shooting prizes at the Deutsches Volksfest, at Mænnerchor Park, Labor Day, are on exhibition at Gus Pfaff's Wallkill House.

The committee of arrangements is working hard to make the fest a success. The Carl Sahm Club, of New York, which will furnish music, will be well worth hearing and there will be many other pleasing features.

CELEBRATED TOO FREELY.

One Veteran Falls from a Wagon and Is Taken to the Hospital—His Companion Drove a Mile Before Missing Him.

Two old soldiers, who drove to this city, yesterday, to attend the reunion at Midway, celebrated the occasion rather too freely in the evening and were hardly in a fit condition to travel alone when they started to drive home.

One of the men fell out of the wagon near Ontario hose house. He struck upon his back and received a slight cut on the head and was rendered unconscious. The ambulance was called and he was taken to Thrall Hospital where he spent the night. This morning he was all right and left for his home.

The other man, who was driving, was so interested in looking after the horse that he did not see or hear his companion fall, and drove on and must have proceeded a mile or more before he missed him. He then turned back and when he arrived in the North End his companion was carefully tucked away for the night in the hospital.

The proprietor of the North End Hotel, seeing the veteran's condition, took him into the house and put his horse under the shed until he was in a condition to return home.

This little incident will doubtless furnish amusement and a warning as well, for the two veterans when they attend another reunion.

The Recorder Sits in Judgment on a Newsboys' Fight.

Two newsboys had a scrap at the James street depot, this morning, and one caused the arrest of the other. After hearing both sides the Recorder discharged the lad with a warning.

There is a gang of boys who frequent the depot platform and who make perfect nuisances of themselves by pushing and crowding and yelling in their efforts to dispose of their papers. They should be suppressed.

Free Conveyance for Sunday School Children.

The invitation to the picnic of the First Congregational Church and Sunday School, to-morrow, is intended for all children in the Sunday School independent of any fee for the ride except for such as are able to pay. Arrangements are made for the free conveyance of all the children not otherwise provided for. Only notice of intention to go must be given to-night.

John George Kurtz's Fortune.

Captain Gould received, this morning, from Jacob Diegel, of Philadelphia, a letter thanking him for his interest in the John George Kurtz case. The writer stated that if Mr. Kurtz could prove his identity as the man wanted, a snug fortune awaited him. There is little doubt of his ability to prove that he is the man to whom the money belongs.

Judgment Against the Erie in a Mileage Book Case.

A judgment for $50 and costs was given, yesterday, in New York city against the Erie Railroad in a suit brought by John J. Dillon, formerly of Port Jervis, because the railroad company had refused to sell him a mileage book, as required by the law passed last winter.

Left the Rails and Blocked the Track.

The Erie stone train of eleven cars left the track at Greycourt, this morning, completely blocking the east bound track. The wrecking crew being on the ground cleared the track in a short time. Train 38 was run around on the west bound track.

Lost a Gold Badge.

Col. Robert Wilson, of Newburgh, lost a gold badge in this city, yesterday, while in attendance on the Tenth Legion re-union. The badge was presented to him by S. W. Fullerton Post and was highly prized by Col. Wilson, who will pay a suitable reward for its return.

Arrested for Using Abusive Language.

Jack Duffy in a loud tone of voice abused Constable Faulkner in round terms on Franklin Square, this morning. The latter made a complaint and Duffy was arrested. He was took drunk to be given a hearing and was placed in the cooler to sober up.

Hymeneal Notes.

—Mrs. Rosa M. Lloyd, of Bloomingburgh, who has many warm friends in this city, and William W. Grant, a prominent real estate broker of New York city, were united in marriage in Brooklyn, on August 18th.

Population of State Hospital.

According to the Conglomerate there were, Tuesday, 1,179 patients in the State Hospital for the Insane, in this city, of whom 584 were males and 595 were females. During the week nine patients were admitted and two discharged.

—Many Goshen wheelmen are in attendance, this afternoon, at the bicycle races on the Campbell track, Middletown.

CONCERT AT THRALL HOSPITAL.

The 24th Separate Company Band Delights the Patients and Hundreds of Citizens.

The 24th Separate Co. did a very praiseworthy thing, last evening. It gave a fine concert on the grounds of Thrall Hospital.

A crowd of several hundred people gathered in the park and on the hospital grounds and were delighted listeners, but those who enjoyed the concert most were the attaches of the hospital and the eleven patients who are under treatment there.

The hospital was brilliantly illuminated in recognition of the courtesy of the band.

The Erie's Big Excursion.

The Erie had a big excursion to New York, to-day. When the special train arrived in this city from Port Jervis it had on board 548 passengers. There were 131 persons who had come in from the Crawford Branch waiting in two special cars which were attached to the train here and 162 boarded the train at James street and 18 at Main street, making 859 who left this city. Many others were doubtless added at stations east of here.

An Officer Injured in the Discharge of Duty.

Constable Samuel Pitts, of Montgomery, had one of his arms badly injured, Sunday. He was attempting to arrest a young man who had taken D. A. Shafer's horse from Al. Terwilliger, who had hired it, when he was thrown down and hurt. His assailant, who is Terwilliger's son, is still at large.

A Farmers' Clam Bake and Picnic.

A farmers' picnic and clam bake was given at Col. Beyea's, at New Vernon, last evening. It was a good bake, as a number of Middletowners, who were present, can testify.

The Dairy Maids' Drill.

Everybody should remember the Dairy Maids' drill at the Assembly Rooms, Friday evening, Sept. 4th, for the benefit of the Middletown-Goshen Convalescent Children's Home. Admission only fifteen cents.

A BRIDE ROSE.

Beside the long table in the brilliantly-lighted room stood several men, one made prominent by the lofty grace of his bearing and the grave beauty of his thoughtful face. This was the surgeon who had consented to come from a distance that a mysterious ailment might be penetrated and its causes laid bare.

How tenderly he leaned over the small, pale face ere yet the anaesthetic had been administered; how deep and thrilling the tones of his voice as he spoke words of encouragement to the sufferer. Stooping in the presence of the assembled students and bearded men of the resident medical faculty, he laid his lips in a light kiss on the fair forehead of the child. As he leaned above her his eye caught the gleam of the pearly-petaled bud that lay upon the childish breast. And did he start, or was it a flicker of one of the myriad lights? Very gently he lifted the bud, his hand encountering a strip of paper tied about the long stems as he did so; and, turning, he laid it down with the gloves, which he had doffed upon entering the hall.

All was over, and well over. The child had rallied, and was sleeping quietly. Beside her watched skilled nurses, and within reach of her waking hand stood a great bowl of choicest bloom, but the creamy bud was gone. These had come in its stead.

III.

Alone in the room assigned him in the hotel sits the surgeon. In a vase before him droops the pale bud, and the delicate fragrance from its heart seems to mount to his brain, for he rises from his chair, to pace with restless feet the narrow room. He holds in his hand a slip of paper, and a thousand times has he read and reread its simple legend: "In memory of Leonard."

Was the tale tattled to him by envious tongues of a desolate home, a ruined and blighted life, misplaced and too ardent affections a lie? And have his feet trodden the weary round of endless search after forgetfulness, only to return and find himself the one in error and his little love still faithful to a childish dream?

Leonard d'Orville, the man, was almost as much a creature of impulse as ever was Leonard d'Orville, the boy.

Rising swiftly to his feet, with a look of resolution on his dark face, he dashes out into the night. In a box of long, pale buds, buried deep in their emerald foliage, he places a letter, and it reads:

"Floribel: I have trodden the whole of earth to find forgetfulness, only to learn that I have fled from the cup of happiness that waited near my lips. Your message and your rosebud have found me. Here are our bridal roses. If you had been the wife of another your little messenger would never have left your loyal hand. I will wait here. If you do not desire me to come to you, a word will banish me. If I hear nothing, and a weary time it will seem, within the next four days, I shall know that you are willing I should come. Should your heart call out across the years, as does my own, send but a word, a bud from our bride rose tree, and the mission of a flower could come to no sadder heart or lonlier life! I love you, dear. I have always loved you. I have tried to become the man on whom you could bestow the priceless treasure of yourself! God bless you—whether I am to be, or not, your own

"LEONARD."

And Floribel Rose became Froribel d'Orville; and, at their marriage, above them swayed to and fro a canopy of pale, emerald foliage, with here and there an oval bud of purest white. For there were but few buds left when Miss Floribel leaned to pluck the one she sent to the city in answer to Leonard's love letter, for most of them had gone to comfort the sick and the sorrowful ones of earth.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Wonderful Power.

The power of imagination is amusingly illustrated in the story told of an old lady who had never heard the celebrated violinist, Paganini, play, and one day obtained permission to attend a rehearsal of one of his concerts. It so happened that Paganini did not take his violin with him to the rehearsal that day, but borrowed one from a member of the orchestra, and instead of playing as usual, simply kept up a kind of pizzicato accompaniment. After the rehearsal the old lady went up to Mr. Cooke, the musical director, and said in a burst of enthusiasm: "Oh, dear! Mr. Cooke, what a wonderful man he is! I declare I never knew what music was capable of till this morning." "Indeed, madam, he is truly a marvelous man," assented Mr. Cooke, with a smile; "but this morning you are indebted rather to your imagination than your ears for the delight you have had, for Paganini has not really played at all. He has not even touched a bow." "Well," said the old lady, after a moment's astounded silence, recovering herself, "then all I can say is, he's even more remarkable than I thought he was! For if he can effect me in such a manner without playing, what should I do, how should I feel, when he really did play!"—Youth's Companion.

Ungracious.

Givers who bestow their benefactions in such a way as to attract the most attention are entitled to credit, not because they give in that way, but because they give. But if they heard all that is said of their gifts they would probably not be so well pleased with themselves as they sometimes are. The story is told that a certain very miserly man, who, during the greater part of his life, had never been known to give anything either publicly or privately, at last bestowed a chime of bells on a church in the town where he lived. "What do you suppose he did that for?" some one asked. "Oh," some one else answered, "he did it so that he could hear the ring of his money!"—Youth's Companion.

Went Round.

CHEMICAL ANALYSIS and a careful microscopical examination of the urine, is a valuable aid in determining the nature of many chronic diseases, particularly those of the nervous system, blood, liver, kidneys, and bladder. These aids make it possible to treat such diseases successfully at a distance, without personal examination of the patient. Thus Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Inflammation of the Bladder, Gravel, and other Diseases of the Urinary Organs, "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Dropsy and many other maladies are successfully treated and cured without personal consultation with the physician.

Nervous Debility, whether resulting from over-study, worry, disappointment, or from exhausting drains upon the system caused by pernicious secret habits contracted in youth, through ignorance of their ruinous consequences, is successfully managed, through correspondence, the necessary medicines being sent by mail or express. Write for question blanks, or describe your case, send sample of urine for analysis and enclose 21 cents for postage on 1000 page Book which contains photographs and names and addresses of vast numbers of people cured in this way. A Railroad Official's Experience.

MR. EDWARD EDMONDS, long connected with railroad construction in Nebraska, writes: "My heart troubled and pained me for 19 years. Shortness of breath was the constant and most common symptom. Intense excruciating pain, generally followed any severe exertion. Faintness, hunger without any appetite; fluttering that made me clutch my breast, and palpitation that often staggered me as if I would fall, were frequent attacks. Again, everything would turn black if I arose from a stooping posture quickly. Sleepless nights with their prostrating unrest were numerous and I could get no rest day or night. I consulted leading physicians and tried advertised remedies. They gave me no relief. One of Dr. Miles' circulars described my case so exactly that I took Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and I am now a well man. I hope every one troubled with heart disease will try Dr. Miles' remedies. If they will write me personally, I will gladly give them full details of my experience." EDW. EDMONDS.

PLAYING THE PIANO.

Mr. H. A. Kelso Advances a Valuable New Theory.

Study of Anatomy, Physiology and Knowledge of Acoustics and Psychology Necessary for a Thorough Mastery of the Pianoforte.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

H. A. Kelso, of Handel hall, Chicago, presents a new theory of piano playing based upon principles of anatomy, physiology, acoustics and psychology, and in an exhaustive article which he has published on the subject undertakes to show how piano playing may be reduced to a scientific basis. He advises the study of anatomy, that the teacher may learn to develop a good "piano hand" of physiology that we may learn the fundamental causes which operate in velocity playing. We learn, he says, to avoid and successfully treat weeping sinews and musician's cramp. By the understanding and application of the laws governing muscle innervation we learn to control and husband the potent force termed nervous energy. Misdirected nerve energy makes sickly piano players and unhealthy music is the result. Extracts from his article follow:

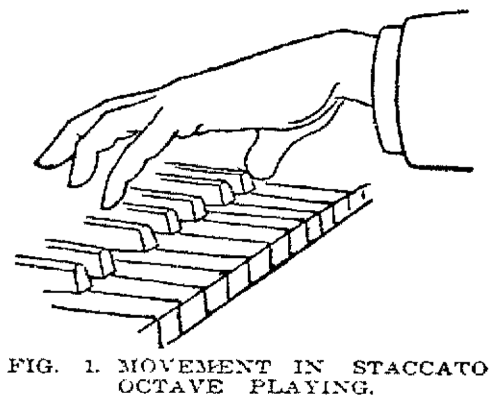

FIG. 1. MOVEMENT IN STACCATO OCTAVE PLAYING.

Better modes of developing the power of memorizing and of preserving untouched the pupil's individuality are the result of physical study. That we should study acoustics "goes without saying," as we cannot know too much of sound. Pedal management, tonal coloring and the science of harmony are all better understood through a knowledge of the properties of acoustics. A knowledge of the anatomy of the hand, wrist, fore and upper arm gives the student greater facility in individual muscular control. In consequence of the control thus gained, the whole arm becomes more expressive. A crisply-leggiero effect can best be produced by energizing the muscles of the upper arm and those of the fingers, while relaxing the wrist muscles. This is a very important point, and is simply the application of the mechanical principle of the resistance being equal to the force of the blow.

A development of the pronator muscles in the forearm renders possible a good position of the hand for playing octaves, arpeggios, scales, chords and trills with the fourth and fifth fingers. Rolling octave playing is dependent upon a separated control of the supinator and pronator muscles from those of the fingers. Speed requires the shortening of the latent period of the muscle, and this can be accomplished only by taking up the slack of the tendons. The principal muscle concerned in producing a crisply staccato effect with finger action is the extensor, as upon this muscle depends the brevity of tone. By elevating the wrist, curving the second finger and depressing it at the knuckle-joint, the finger is in the best possible position for producing the effect.

The physiology of velocity playing is a subject of great interest to the practical piano teacher. In some persons rapidity of movement is natural, the muscular tissue is very irritable and exercises of speed do not demand great effort. In others the muscles, although energetic, obey the orders of the will with considerable slowness. A great expenditure of nervous energy is necessary to obtain a rapid movement. Illustrations of these differences may be noticed in the gymnasium, in fencing, boxing, rowing, walking, and in piano playing. Pfluger is authority for the statement that when a nerve is stimulated by action of the will or otherwise, the stimulus received by the nerve increases in intensity as it reaches the muscle.

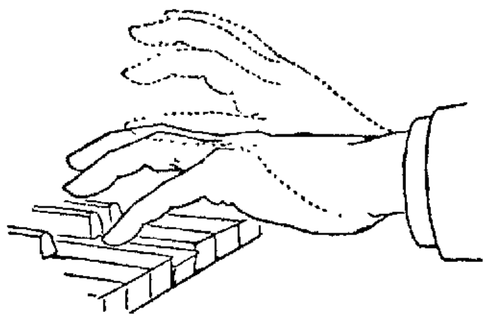

FIG. 2. MOVEMENT IN STACCATO OCTAVE PLAYING.

The three attributes of tone are force, pitch and quality. Force is dependent upon the amplitude of the vibrations. Pitch is dependent upon the vibrational number—the greater the number the higher the pitch. From these facts we deduct principles of study which are practicable to an intelligent student of piano playing. The overtones of tones sounded in the upper registers are of such great vibrational number that the ear fails to establish a definite pitch for them. Then, again, the waves of such tones are so short that they vanish almost immediately after sounding; therefore the pedal, which permits the tone to be reenforced, may be used more freely in the upper register than in the middle or lower. One tone sustained by the pedal in the middle is equal in intensity to about four in the upper register. It is possible by a delicate manipulation of the pedal to obliterate the discordant harmonies in the upper, without losing an organ point in the lower register, which sometimes of necessity must be sustained by the pedal.

Have had four months of success much more than was expected for the first few months. What is the cause of our increase in business? Why the people realize we are HEADQUARTERS, and that all our dealings are upright and honest, and for that reason they patronize us. We wish to thank those who have already placed confidence in us, and hope to share more patronage by using all our patients who deal with us honestly. Our Examination is FREE and Prices the Very Lowest.

The eye should be properly fitted and treated, as it is the most important part of one's person. Without your eyesight you can do nothing. So it is for your own advantage that you go where you have your eyes properly treated, as this is the place, as we do nothing but treat the eye, so we are Headquarters. You are always welcome.

LOOKING IT OVER.

He sees everything. It looks well and the prospect pleases him. That's natural enough, as nothing can be pleasanter to contemplate than a house that looks just the thing for a home. We have plenty of houses that are just the thing for homes on our list of properties for sale in Middletown and vicinity. It would make any man's face broaden out like a full moon to inspect some of them. Looking over such property can have but one result, it means a purchase every time. Our reasonable prices and easy terms of payment settle that point. Come and see how much we can do for a little.

SUPREME Court, State of New York—Joshua J. Hawkins plaintiff, vs Hillside Cemetery Association.

In pursuance to an order duly made by Hon. William D. Dickey, one of the Justices of this court at a Special Term thereof, and entered in the office of the Clerk of Orange county, on the 16th day of March 1896, in the above entitled action, notice is hereby given to all the creditors of the Hillside Cemetery Association to exhibit and prove their claims according to law, to the said receiver Charles C. Luckey at his office, No. 9 North street in the city of Middletown, Orange county, New York, on or before the 20th day of September 1896 and thereby make themselves parties to this action.

It is further provided in and by said order that the creditors of the said corporation who may default in so doing, shall be precluded from all benefit of the judgment to be entered herein, and from any distribution to be made hereunder.

Oliver Wendell Holmes said:

"If all drugs were thrown into the sea it would be better for men and worse for the fishes."

Yet for the only drug which is at once a medicine and a food we are indebted to one of those same fishes. Dr. Holmes was hasty. "No known drug," says a high English authority (Dr. A. E. Bridger), "except cod-liver oil, has power to generate any force within the human body. The stimulants and tonics waste force and create weakness." Thus we see why of Cod-liver Oil with hypophosphites has, for twenty years, been the chief dependence of physicians in all bronchial and lung diseases. Scott's Emulsion acts strictly on the lines of modern medical practice. It does not stimulate, like alcohol and quinine, or stupefy like opium and the bromides. It nourishes, strengthens and upbuilds the system. Being a true food (digested and absorbed in cases wherein other food only clogs the digestive organs, ferments, and poisons the blood), Scott's Emulsion arrests wasting, forms new flesh and tissue, revives the natural appetite and cures disease, conferring more life. For consumption, bronchitis, depleted blood, scrofula, etc., it excels all other remedies or forms of treatment.

Scott's Emulsion

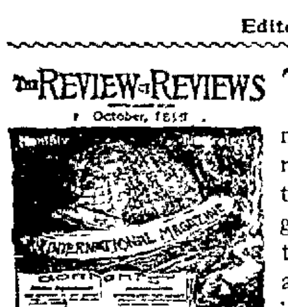
THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.



THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

● Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

Now He's All Right.

New Boarder—Madam, is this a sanitarium or a boarding house?

Proprietress—What do you mean, sir?

New Boarder—I am not in training for a bicycle race; I'm not trying to take off flesh, and the doctor says my digestion is perfect.

Proprietress—I think I understand you. It was very considerate to mention the matter privately. Just eat at the second table with me.—Detroit Free Press.

A Prescription.

The young woman who takes music lessons and practices scales, had announced to her friends that she was going away.

"Isn't it rather a sudden determination?"

"Yes. It's the doctor's orders."

"Why, you don't look the least bit ill."

"Oh, I'm perfectly well. Auntie is the one who is sick."—Washington Star.

Her Escape.

She told him her age was twenty-two,
But he
Had looked the family Bible through
You see,
And knew her to be fully thir-
Ty-three.
It grieved him thus to see the maid
Grossly prevaricate,
And that's the reason why, 'tis said,
He didn't marry Kate.
—Chicago Tribune.

Up to Snuff.

Golucky—As I'm the special summer correspondent of the New York Daily Blowhard, I suppose your terms to me will be somewhat different from your terms to regular guests.

Summer Hotel Clerk (briskly)—Yes, sir—yes, sir; of course. Our terms to you will be cash in advance.—N. Y. Weekly.

Its Location.

"Ah, for a lame back, I presume?" inquired the druggist, suavely.

"No," replied the callow poet, who had asked for a porous plaster, "for writer's cramp."

"Pardon me, but how can you apply it to your wrist?"

"It isn't in my wrist—it's in my stomach."—Truth.

Her Cake.

Mrs. Cook (who prides herself upon her rich cake)—Have a piece of this cake, Mrs. Nareve; you needn't be afraid of it; it's not at all rich.

Mrs. Nareve (eating)—There, that's just the kind of cake that suits me. Them that wants rich cake can have it. Just give me a piece of common cheap stuff; it's good enough for me!—Boston Transcript.

A Roland for an Oliver.

"If I were so unfortunate," said the man who had no use for the clergy, "as to have a stupid son, I'd prepare him for the ministry."

"In that respect," replied a mild mannered divine, "you think very differently from your father."—Washington Times.

In the Light of Experience.

The Newly Married Man (on his first night off, sadly)—I wonder what my wife will say when I get home?

The Other—When you've been married as long as I have, old man, you'll know beforehand.—Truth.

A Knowing Doctor.

Mrs. Neighborleigh—Your physician seems to know his business thoroughly.

Mrs. Constant Teazer—Indeed he does. He's ordered me to Europe for my health and says both the children must have bicycles.—Town Topics.

Best for the Place.

An office boy named Willie
Is the best the place to fill,
For when you send him out with goods
You likewise send the "Bill."
—L. A. W. Bulletin.

AN EXCELLENT REASON.

Miss Hester—Why aren't you content with your lot?

Mr. Chester—It's mortgaged.—N. Y. Recorder.

Not Weak-Kneed.

"I am afraid that man who aspires to your hand is too week-kneed to make you a good husband," said her father.

"Oh, papa, he's not that! He's held me on them for hours at a time!"—Illustrated Bits.

Neighborly Comment.

"I see the Jacksons have put screens all around their piazza."

"Yes, and I have my opinion of people who are so stingy they won't even let flies sit on their porch."—Chicago Record.

His Excuse.

Mrs. Farmer—Why do you walk the roads in this aimless manner year in and year out?

Weary Watkins—Because I ain't got no bicycle.—Indianapolis Journal.

An Important Question.

If your friends or neighbors are suffering from coughs, colds, sore throat, or any throat or lung disease (including consumption), ask them if they have ever used Ott's Cure. This famous German remedy is having a large sale here and is performing some wonderful cures of throat and lung diseases. J. J. Chambers will give you a sample bottle free. No matter what other medicines have failed to do, try Ott's Cure. Large packages 25 cents and 50 cents.

For your Protection—Catarrh "cures" in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain Mercury or Iodide of Potassa or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by cold and damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages. Cold in the head, if repeatedly neglected results in catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug.

A Short Cut to Health.

To try to cure constipation by taking pills is like going around in a circle. You can never reach the point sought, but only get back to the starting point. A perfect natural laxative is Bacon's Celery King, the celebrated remedy for all nerve, blood, stomach, liver and kidney diseases. It regulates the bowels. J. J. Chambers will give you a sample package free, 57 North street. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Some Local and Personal Notes—Where the New Woman Was Not Appreciated

From a Special Correspondent.

—Charles Coleman and family, who have been spending part of the summer at Indian Lake, are expected at their home in Goshen, this week.

—Miss Anna Sayer, of Walden, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. William M. Sayer, at her home in this village.

—There are evidently parts of our own country where the new woman is not appreciated and where she has not as yet gained a footing. A friend who lives in a neighboring State recently told the writer of an experience that she and a companion of her own sex had in the course of a day's drive. The pair started quite early in the day, which was a lovely one in autumn. They drove for many miles through a charming country, and were so absorbed in admiring its beauty that it was several hours before they discovered that the fine, bracing air had developed in them both an exceedingly healthy appetite. Just as the pangs of hunger were beginning to be somewhat clamorous they found themselves approaching a small village and, on its outskirts, met a man driving one of those vehicles which seem to consist principally of two pairs of wheels with nothing especial between them except a long board. Him they greeted and asked information concerning the hamlet and its best hotel. He evidently was not pressed for time,—somehow the man who drives that sort of wagon seldom is—and, after a leisurely survey of his interlocutors and a pause to collect his thoughts, he drawled forth: "Waal, I always go to Brown's myself. There ain't no style about Brown, but he'll give you a good square meal." The friends, feeling that if at that moment style and a "square meal" were to be weighed in the balance, it would be style that would be found wanting, proceeded on their way and found the hostelry. Here they were received by Mrs. Brown, who assured them that dinner would soon be ready and, after a delay of half an hour or so, ushered them into a room where Brown sat enthroned in state at the table, the plate in front of him heaped with meat and vegetables, which, as soon as his guests were seated, he attacked with great vigor, his meek spouse meanwhile waiting upon the company, but keeping an eye all the time upon her lord and master and hastening to replenish his plate when necessary, which was quite often. When the meal was ended and the friends resumed their journey, they looked at each other for a moment in silence, and then with one accord remarked: "There ain't no style about Brown." G. H.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

A New York Young Man Meets Death in the Delaware.

Harry F. Crane was drowned in the Delaware River, at Aldrick's Eddy, between Port Jervis and Milford, Monday evening. He and Thomas Hutchings rowed out to a float in the middle of the stream and Crane swam away some distance. He called for help and when his companion went to his assistance when the drowning man threw his arms around Hutchings' neck, and would have dragged him down if he had not succeeded in freeing himself from his embrace.

Other persons were near and soon recovered the body, but were unable to resuscitate the young man.

Crane was twenty-eight years old and a clerk in the stock exchange in New York. He had been riding a bicycle and is supposed to have been seized with a chill in the water.

MANY LOST THEIR MONEY.

Very Strange Series of Coincidences in Hudson.

From the Hudson Republican

During the past week considerable money has mysteriously disappeared in Hudson. In the early part of the week a farmer who came to town discovered before reaching home that his wallet containing $115 was gone. A couple of days later another man lost a wallet containing $26. Saturday afternoon a lady going to the Central-Hudson depot discovered when she went to buy a ticket that her purse was gone and that she was about $20 out. In the evening a man from Philmont reported to the police that he had lost $75 and a gold plated watch. Maybe there are professional pickpockets in Hudson. All these losses within the short space of a week seem singular.

Novel Suit Against the O. and W.

R. S. Yeomans, of Oxford, has sued the O. and W. railroad for $50 damages to his carriage by the running away of his horse in Norwich, it having taken fright, as is alleged, at some cars left standing on a crossing.

After meals you should have simply a feeling of comfort and satisfaction. You should not feel any special indications that digestion is going on. If you do, you have indigestion, which means not-digestion. This may be the beginning of so many dangerous diseases, that it is best to take it in hand at once and treat it with Shaker Digestive Cordial. For you know that indigestion makes poison which causes pain and sickness. And that Shaker Digestive Cordial helps digestion and cures indigestion. Shaker Digestive Cordial does this by providing the digestive materials in which the sick stomach is wanting. It also tones up and strengthens the digestive organs and makes them perfectly healthy. This is the rationale of its method of cure, as the doctors would say. Sold by druggists, price 10 cents to $1 per bottle.

TENTH LEGION REUNION.

Additional Report of the Proceedings at the Business Session Yesterday Afternoon.

As was briefly stated in yesterday's edition, the old officers of the Tenth Legion were re-elected at the business meeting in the afternoon, as follows:

President—W. R. Miles.
Secretary—W. H. D. Blake.
Treasurer—Joel C. Fisk.
Chaplain—George P. VanWyck.

Past Commander Wheeler, of Gen. Lyon Post, moved to hold the next reunion in this city, but the proposition was voted down by a very large majority. Danbury, the home of the president, was suggested, but as no one volunteered to furnish transportation the motion was withdrawn and one naming Matteawan was substituted and was carried.

The fourth Monday in August was named as the permanent date of the annual reunions.

The question of a flag was brought up and some one suggested that the ladies be given a chance to present a flag, as they did to the Orange Blossoms, but there were cries of "No! no! Let us buy a flag, if takes every cent in the treasury." Then, on motion, the Treasurer, in connection with the other officers, was authorized to purchase a suitable flag.

President Miles presented to the association a handsome gavel, the head of which was made of the old regimental flag staff, now in Washington's Headquarters in Newburgh, bound with two silver bands; the handle was made from one of the spokes of a carriage of a gun captured by the Legion at Dingle's Mills, April 9, 1865.

The gavel was accepted on behalf of the association in a neat speech by Joel C. Fisk, of Liberty.

The death roll for the past year was read as follows:

Gen. C. H. VanWyck, Oct. 4, '95.
Dan'l S. Dudley, 7 Ind. Bat., Middletown, Dec. 5, '95.
John Wilson, Co. I., 56th, Jan. 11, '96, at Mountaindale.
Joseph Wood, C., 56, Jan. 11, '96 Walden.
Wm. R. Avery, G., 56, Feb. 20, '96, Thompsonville.
John Sweezy, 1st Mounted Rifles, Middletown.
Adjutant Henry B. Loomis, Soldiers' Home, Dayton, Ohio, March 5, '96.
Fred S. Selley, H., 56, died in Massachusetts.

A dispatch from Chaplain VanWyck was received at the grounds and letters of regret were read from the following:

Joseph Lomas, assistant secretary, Newburgh.
J. G. Jobbins, Athol, Mass.
Capt. Wm. T. Calkins, Warrenburgh, Mo.
Lieut. Norman Perkins, Minneapolis, Minn.
Addison L. LaForge, Co B., Brooklyn.
Benj. Lowerre, Spencer, Iowa.
Geo. H. Lowe, Co. F., Columbus Junction, Iowa.

Over 100 of the surviving members were present, yesterday, most of whom were accompanied by their families.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

—Members are expected to attend the annual meeting for the election of officers, to-morrow afternoon, in the rooms, 134 North street, at 3 o'clock.

—Friday evening cream will be served in the rooms at ten cents a plate. All are invited.

—The dedication exercises of our new State building on the fair grounds at Syracuse will take place, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 1st. During the fair 15,000 copies of the "Fair White Ribbon," edited and published by Mrs. Frances Graham, who sang so acceptably in our city a short time ago, will be issued.

Old Central-Hudson River Engineers to Be Retired.

As a result of recent tests of the vision of engineers on the Central-Hudson River Railroad it is said that at least sixty men who have grown old in the company's service and whose sight has become dimmed by age will be retired from their positions. The officers of the road fully realize the hardship involved in displacing these old servants of the company, but say that it is necessary to insure the safety of the traveling public.

Old Ladies' Home Fair.

The fair for the benefit of the Old Ladies' Home will be held at the Home on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, Sept. 3. A great variety of fancy and useful articles will be offered for sale. Lunch will be served at noon for thirty-five cents and supper at 6 o'clock for twenty-five cents.

The "Klam Klub" Outing.

Ten members of Monhagen's "Klam Klub" rode to Bloomingburgh on their wheels last evening, and had supper at Schubert's Hotel. It was a very pleasant outing and was greatly enjoyed by all the "Klammers."

A Bryan and Sewall Banner.

Gabe Tuthill has secured a handsome flag, 25x15, which will be swung to the breeze on James street, with the names of Bryan and Sewall, the Democratic candidates, attached.

Mothers Everywhere Praise It.

GILBERTSVILLE, N. Y., Dec. 31, 1895.—"Dr. Hand—I want every mother to know what a wonderful medicine Dr. Hand's Colic Cure is. Our little girl two months old has been troubled terribly with Colic. A friend recommended Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I find it just what it is claimed to be and would give five dollars a bottle rather than be without it." Mrs. Hubert Strait. Dr. Hand's Remedies for Children sold by all druggists. 25 cents.

Insist on having just what you call for when you go to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier and nerve tonic.

UP THE MIDLAND.

Would Make a Good Candidate—A Lost Industry to the Farmers of Western Sullivan—An Abandoned Stone Mill—The Drift of Politics.

Correspondence of ARGUS and MERCURY.

—The Sullivan county Democracy can do no better than nominate for Member of Assembly James F. Wood, of the town of Fremont. Mr. Wood is an extensive farmer and also a wood acid manufacturer, and an all around good business man, and would make a good record as a legislator of which his constituents would feel proud.

—Thirty years ago, it was a poor year when the towns of Delaware, Callicoon and Fremont did not furnish hundreds of bushels of timothy seed for market. The bulk of the land was new in those days, just from the forest, and it was nothing unusual for timothy to grow five feet high with heads from six to eight inches long, and with seed far superior to what we get in the market to-day, and being gathered with the sickle it was free from weeds of any kind. This is now all changed and it is doubtful if there is a bushel of Sullivan county grass seed grown for market this year.

—For the past three years not a wheel has turned in the Williams stone mill on the line of the O. and W., between Cook's Falls and Rockland. Mr. Williams died last winter and the mill is now owned by Mr. Coykendall, of Kingston, and it looks now as if it would never again be used for the purpose for which it was built. Williams was at one time stone king on the O. and W., but after spending all his available cash in this mill was obliged to make an assignment and go out of business. And now this stone mill and several thousand dollars due laboring men and other creditors are the only things left to remind us of a one time extensive business.

—The political pot boils with greater fury than ever before known. While our Republican friends are very confident that Mr. McKinley will be elected by a large majority, yet they are on the anxious seat and their papers are whooping it up at a fearful rate. There is a greater defection among the Republicans than they would have us believe, especially among the farmers. Mr. Bryan is steadily on the gain, and it does but little good for Republican bosses to write to their papers saying that they do not know of a single Republican voter who will vote for Bryan and Sewall. Among the circle of my acquaintances I know of two Republicans who will vote the ticket to one Democrat who will bolt it, and should this ratio hold good Mr. Bryan will carry the State of New York by a good majority. "TUXEDO DAY."

From the Independent Republican.

Arrangements are already in progress for another "Tuxedo Day" at Goshen Driving Park, last year's success having encouraged the managers to repeat the affair. The date selected is somewhat earlier than that of last year, and there will be two Tuxedo Days instead of one. It has been decided to give the exhibition on Friday and Saturday, October 2 and 3. The affair will include all the attractive features of last year, and many new ones will be added the details of which will be announced later.

Second Annual Mid-Summer Day Outing

One of the grandest excursions of the season will be run to Coney Island by the Ontario and Western on Sunday, Aug. 30th. Train will leave Middletown, Wickham avenue, at 8:30, and Main street 8:32 a. m., allowing over six hours on the beach. One dollar will be the price for the round trip. Returning leave the island at 6 p. m. Don't forget that $1 takes you all the way to Coney Island and return. There will be lots of room and seats provided for every one. 20d7t

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every time it will cure Backache.

It has cured more cases of leucorrhœa by removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is of great value for local application.
